STARS OF THE WEEK:

8th November 2024

Bees. Carter: We have been so impressed with Carter's attitude towards his work this week. He has been enthusiastic and attentive. He has tried super hard with his writing this week and has shown us brilliant understanding of shape in Maths. Well done, Carter, keep it up from now on.

Butterflies. Connie: Connie has come back to school with a spring in her step and continues to blow us away with her readiness to learn. She is always listening, answering questions, making the right choices and just being brilliant every day. She is working so hard in all her focussed sessions and is a fantastic role model to her friends. Well done Connie we are very proud of you.

Squirrels. Felix: Felix has been amazing throughout his first week as a Squirrel. He has settled into the class really well – making lots of friends and working really hard. I have been so impressed with his attitude to starting a new school and I really hope he keeps it up! Well done, Felix and welcome to Squirrels!

Frogs. Fifi J: Fifi has had an amazing week! She has worked particularly hard in Maths whilst tackling some fact families and she has been very resilient and grown in confidence over the week. I have been so impressed by how she has contributed throughout the week in all lessons and been such an excellent role model to others. Well done, Fifi!

Mice. Esra: Esra has been a super star this week - working hard and listening well. He has created a super plan for his story and tried extra hard in his new reading and spelling group. He has also focused really well in Maths when using practical equipment. What a great attitude and an increase in confidence Esra. Well done!

Hedgehogs. Charlotte: Charlotte has come back to school with an amazing attitude to learning. She has shown amazing resilience this week and has shown that she is ready to learn. She has tried so hard with everything she has done this week. Well done, Charlotte, keep up the hard work.

Moles. Ronnie: Ronnie has come back to school with an amazing attitude. She has been putting her hand up and giving it her all in every subject this week, she also hasn't been afraid to ask for help which shows great resilience! Her behaviour is always excellent and has made an excellent start to this term. Well done, Ronnie!

"Together, we will make a difference."

Rabbits. Oliver: Oliver has shown his excellent musical skills recently. He has shone out during his flute lessons, and this has been noticed by his music tutor. Also, we have been impressed with his French learning. Keep being ambitious!

Badgers. James: I have been really impressed with James's attitude to learning and focus this week. He has been putting in lots of effort, listening and really motivated to work hard. Well done, James.

Foxes. Maise: For excellent concentration in class this week. Both the quality of her work and the presentation has been excellent also. Keep up this focus!!

Kingfishers: Olivia-Mae: Olivia-Mae did a fantastic job in our dance lesson this week. She showed so much enthusiasm with each step, and it's clear she's becoming more confident in her moves and joining in with the whole class. Watching her joy and focus was such a delight. Well done.

Owls. Scarlett: I have been so impressed with Scarlett this week. During our Talk for writing, she has tried so hard to come up with ideas for actions for our story. She has pushed herself to have the confidence to contribute and has been a real asset to the class. I love how you always bring me independent writing from home and you are an absolute star!

Kestrels. Ben: Wow! What a fabulous week Ben has had. He has absolutely smashed every lesson in Maths, learning those dreaded fractions! You have really impressed me with your attitude to learning and motivation - keep it up.

Sparrow Hawks. Luke: Luke has come back to school really focused and has been amazing in all our Maths lessons. He has simplified, converted and been adding fractions with ease! He has also worked hard in our WW2 topic and writing our WW2 report in English. Well done, Luke - a great start to a new term!
