STARS OF THE WEEK:

14th March 2025

Bees. Darcie: This week Darcie has shown such a lot of perseverance with her written words and sentences. She is trying really hard to segment each word and write down the correct sound. She has been brilliant at thinking of interesting sentences for the pictures we have looked at and shown what super observational skills she has. You are making us very proud, Darcie. A big well done to you!

Butterflies. Libby: We are so proud of you this week Libby. You have been trying so hard in phonics in both writing your words and blends your sounds. You are trying so hard to listen, follow instructions and answer questions. Well done Libby a great week.

Squirrels. Sophie: Sophie has been amazing this week. She has been working really hard in lessons and she has also been incredibly kind and helpful around the classroom. She has been helping everyone tidy up without even asking and offering to help other children when they need it. Well done, Sophie – keep it up!

Frogs. Fatima: Fatima is brand new to the Frogs class, and has had an amazing first week! She has shown great resilience and bravery and already settled in so well as she is contributing, trying her best and setting a great example on how to behave in the classroom. Well done, Fatima it is wonderful to have you in our class!

Mice. Isabelle: Isabelle works so hard in all areas. She uses all our keys to success in class and on the playground- being resilient, solving problems and being an independent learner. She consistently contributes great answers in lessons and she is particularly kind and empathetic towards her classmates. Thank you for being a lovely member of Mice class Isabelle.

Hedgehogs. Ralphie: Ralphie has had a fantastic week this week. He has tried really hard in his work across all areas. He has been trying particularly hard in practicing his times tables. Well done, Ralphie!

Moles. Bradley: This week Bradley has been working really hard in his lessons this week! He made an excellent flying machine in science and produced some excellent writing in English. Well done, Bradley!

Rabbits. Connie: Connie has shown a fantastic attitude towards her learning this week. She is engaged and focus in every lesson, as well as working independently. We are proud of all her efforts in school! Keep it up Connie!

"Together, we will make a difference."

Badgers. Aubree: Aubree shows the attitude and behaviour that make her a star pupil every week. This week, I have been really impressed with her teamwork and ideas in English. Well Done, Aubree!

Foxes. Elis: Elis has a fantastic attitude to her learning and is always a role model to others. She has tried hard with her Maths work this week and has participated more in the input, sharing her ideas even when she's not sure. Well done Elis, keep it up!

Kingfishers. Charlie D: Charlie continually demonstrates great resilience in all aspects of his learning. This is particularly clear in Maths, where Charlie has pushed through to emerald challenge level on several occasions this week. Well done, Charlie!

Owls. Caden: Caden has had a brilliant week this week. He has worked so hard on all subjects but tried particularly hard with our science week activity and worked so well in his pair to modify and adapt his flying machine. I am also proud of how hard Caden has been working at home. What a brilliant week Caden!

Kestrels. Shivam: Shivam is working so hard in all areas of the curriculum. He always gives 100% in everything, pushing himself to do as well as possible. This week he has impressed us with his understanding and application when it comes to answering tricky inference questions in guided reading, remembering to use the point, evidence, explain strategy. Fabulous work Shivam – keep it up!

Sparrowhawks. Rose: Rose has been working extremely hard in class in all curriculum areas. She always puts her hand up and contributes fantastic ideas to our topic lessons. I have been particularly impressed this week with the thought that has gone into her discussion piece that we have been working on in our English lessons. Well done Rose - keep up the great work!
